Calling All Community Elves

It's that time of year again! The Lanark County Food Bank – The Hunger Stop is already preparing to put a little Christmas cheer in client's homes with its 17th annual Sandy Claus Stocking Drive.

"Collecting stockings begins right after Thanksgiving," explains LCFB manager Tammy Parent, "because with some clients only coming in once a month, we have to start distributing in mid-November to ensure everyone has a happy Christmas morning. We know how generous our community is and how this generosity puts a smile in someone's heart."

Stocking fillers can include toothpaste, toothbrushes, shampoo, conditioner, body wash, multi-blade razors, nail files, nail clippers, shaving cream, after-shave lotion, moisturizing lotion, loofas, hairbrushes, combs, dental floss, deodorant, and soaps of all kinds. Sweet treats are

The Sandy Claus Stocking Drive began with Sandy Schappert 17 years ago. The idea sparked when her late husband Hank remarked while volunteering at the Food Bank that recipients often said: "this is the only gift I get to open Christmas morning."

If you'd like to donate a stocking full of toiletries and goodies, please mark them His, Hers or Either, and drop them off at the Food Bank Donations and Deliveries door at 84 Mill Street in Carleton Place from November 10 to December 15. Please come during business hours: Monday and Wednesday from 8AM to 1PM, Thursday from 6–8рм, and Sunday from 2–4рм. For more information, please contact Lynn at <lynnyounghusband@gmail.com>.

Back in August of 2024, the late Noreen Young (holding the Humm) and several Puppets Up! organizers travelled to New York City to see "Like Water For Elephants" on Broadway. Joshua Holden (pictured above next to the Count) was Puppet Director for that show, and also invited the group to Queens to visit the studio where Sesame Street puppets are made and repaired. Puppeteer and performer Ben Durocher is pictured next to Cookie Monster.

On page 7 of this issue, you can read about a terrific fundraiser for Puppets Up! and the new Noreen Young Award for the Arts, taking place in Almonte on November 15.

Strengthening Our Local Economies

Here at the Humm we're big on local econohis article entitled Save Our College, Chris Hahn writes: "An article written in 2016 by James Fellows for The Atlantic Magazine commented on the '11 signs a community will succeed'. Included were whether the community had several craft breweries, believe it or not (signifying entrepreneurship; check), its openness to diversity (signifying strength and resilience; check), whether it has a downtown (my goodness, we are blessed with a few; check) and whether it has a community college that the community cares about."

The retail and service businesses in the small towns that we cover play a huge role in the cultural life of our towns. Each store, restaurant, or small enterprise attracts and serves a particular clientele - some inside the community, some from outside. Some businesses host their own special events; others join together with local festivals to make the whole experience more vibrant. Many provide support in cash or in kind to local initiatives. All of them add their own particular flavour to the delicious mix that is small-town Ottawa Valley. A healthy local economy is an essential component to a healthy community.

It is with this in mind that we bring you the Humm's mies. In fact, on page 17 of this issue, you'll 25th annual Gift Giving Guide in both the November see an impassioned appeal to save a key com- and December issues. Our hope is that you'll find ponent of our Ottawa Valley economy. In two kinds of inspiration in the many lists that appear throughout these issues. As you peruse the various categories, we hope you'll discover the perfect present for everyone on your list. But we also hope that you'll be inspired to investigate even more of the independent, locally owned and run businesses throughout our coverage area. In doing so, you're likely to encounter not only friends and neighbours, but also some oldfashioned small town peace and joy —not to mention amazing customer service!

The gifts we buy locally do double-duty by giving pleasure to the recipient and at the same time supporting the business of a friend or neighbour. Many shops and galleries feature works by area creators and/or gifts that are eco-friendly. The money you spend in your community tends to circulate back into the local economy too, so you'll be contributing to a wonderful ripple effect.

We would like to thank the participating merchants for taking the time to send in their Gift Giving Guide suggestions, and thank our readers for shopping locally and thereby supporting both the shops and our paper. Lanark Sheepskin Annie is On Her Way to Carleton Place

Mississippi Mudds Bring Beloved Musical to the Stage

Get ready to tap your toes! The Mississippi Mudds are bringing the family favourite Annie to the Carleton Place Town Hall this fall, with performances running November 28 - 30 and December 4–7.

Filled with classic songs such as Tomorrow, Maybe, and Hard-Knock Life, this heartwarming musical is sure to delight audiences of all ages. Set in 1930s New York City, it follows a spirited young orphan whose unwavering optimism and charm help her find a family and remind everyone that "the sun'll come out tomorrow."

"The talent right here in the Ottawa Valley is absolutely phenomenal," says director Meredith Millman. "Our young lead captures the spirit of Annie perfectly, our seasoned performers light up the stage as Oliver Warbucks and Miss Hannigan, and our vibrant supporting cast ties it all together. It's a production that truly celebrates the passion, creativity and dedication of our local theatre scene."

By placing each species in a reimagined environment, Graham invites viewers to see birds and the natural world in a creative and unique way."

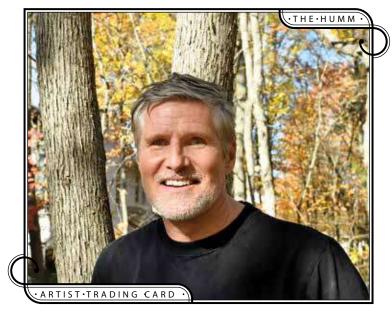

That is certainly how he sees them. His vision is supported by decades of study and summer holiday travel to many foreign cultural hotspots. He says, "I like to experiment! I want to invite the viewer to see the world in a different way." He has spent his whole in printmaking to incorporate fascinating textures by seeing other cultures and going to galleries."

His artworks reflect his happiness. Graham Mastersmith considers himself a very lucky guy, and he truly appreciates his good fortune. He comes from a long line of creative people, and he knew he wanted to be an artist since he was a kid. His daughter, Kyla, is an artist; his partner, Jane Wharton, is an artist. Whitby artist and instructor David Wysotski is his cousin, and the list goes on. He is inspired by Jane's talents and creativity and love of pattern, and he enjoys his daughter's feedback. Kyla recently completed her B.F.A. in Fine Arts from Concordia University, and her art is on display at the Twin Muses Wine Bar and Dining Room in Carp.

Graham earned his Bachelor of Fine Arts with a minor in Biology so he would have two "teachables". His father was a history teacher,

He began his career as a supply teacher in Ottawa, and taught for three decades for the Ottawa Catholic School Board. One of his most satisfying pursuits inspired him to add gold accents to an owl in a recent munity partners." He particularly enjoyed working with Algonquin Traditional Teacher Albert Dumont (Ottawa's English Poet Laureate from April 2021 to April 2023) who was pivotal in the introduction of Indigenous literature and culture to OCDSB students.

Another truly rewarding experience was guiding students from All Saints Catholic High School on humanitarian trips to the Dominican Republic. The students brought clothing and other badly needed essentials, helped to build structures, and supported a tiny early education centre in a sugar plantation. The young teenagers were deeply moved by how other people survive despite extreme poverty and hardship, and how they find happiness by relying on community for support.

Throughout his career he has made full use of his summers off. In addition to his travels to experience foreign cultures and inspirational art galleries, he is an avid whitewater canoer. He continues to make trips to paddle the Spanish River and to other destinations in northern Quebec. While his buddies relax and play cards, Graham creates lovely plein air watercolour paintings of the rivers he's paddled.

Nourishment for the Soul

Now that he is retired, Graham Mastersmith is finally fully investing in his own art career. As a member of Arts Carleton Place, his soulrefreshing art is frequently on display at the members-run Art Hub Gallery at 127 Bridge St. in Carleton Place, open seven days a week. On November 8 and 9 his smaller works will be on view at their annual Itty Bitty Artisan & Art Show at the Carleton Place Arena. As a member of the West Carleton Arts Society, he is participating in their holiday Artistic Creations Sale, held on November 28 and 29 at the Mess Hall at 2240 Craig Side Rd. in Carp.

We Lend a Hand

The Forgotten Story of Ontario Farmerettes

We Lend a Hand: The Forgotten Story of Ontario Farmerettes screens at Studio Theatre Perth on November 7 at 1PM and 5PM. The film has been selling out theatres across Ontario.

Created by director/producer Colin Field and historical producer Bonnie Sitter, the documentary tells the extraordinary story of 40,000 teenage girls who volunteered on Canadian farms during and after World War II and helped sustain the nation's food supply when young men left to fight overseas.

Bonnie Sitter, an author, was searching through old family photographs when she found a captivating image of a group of young women taken on her late husband's family farm near Thedford with a caption on the back that read: "Farmerettes 1946."

This led Bonnie to research the Farmerette story and publish an article in The Rural Voice asking for women who served as Farmerettes to get in touch with her. Shirleyan English, a retired London Free Press journalist, read the article and wrote a letter to the editor, explaining her own experience as a Farmerette, and how it remained the best summer of her life. Bonnie and Shirleyan would go on to co-author the book Onion Skins and Peach Fuzz: Memories of Ontario Farmerettes in 2019.

Farmerettes helped win the Second World War by volunteering to aid farmers with food production,"

A largely forgotten chapter of Canadian history will says Bonnie. "Most of these girls had never seen a be brought to light as the 50-min documentary film farm. They came from all over Ontario as volunteers. They weren't conscripted. They chose to roll up their sleeves and do their part for Canada, and their efforts have largely been forgotten."

Director Colin Field first met Bonnie in 2019 and was inspired by her research and desire to bring this forgotten Canadian story to life. He proposed a documentary film, and Bonnie agreed to fundraise to bring the project alive. Colin interviewed 20 Farmerettes — now in their 90s — for the documentary, and after two years of work, and with the help of sponsors and generous donors, We Lend a Hand was finally completed.

"It has been a privilege to travel throughout the province and hear the stories of these surviving Farmerettes," Field said. "If it wasn't for these girls, the soldiers wouldn't have had food to eat and the economy would have ground to a halt".

The film will be screened at 1PM and 5PM with doors opening 30 minutes before the show. Admission is $12 at the door. After the screening there will be a Q&A with the filmmakers and a chance to acquire autographed copies of Onion Skins and Peach Fuzz: Memories of Ontario Farmerettes, Shirleyan English and Bonnie Sitter's amazing book. Local Talent Shines at Chautauqua

Puppets Up! Presents a Diverse and Hilarious Variety Show

What could 69-year-old retired public relations practitioner Susan (who can't carry a tune in a bucket), and 17-year-old student Maggie (who has the voice of an angel) possibly have in common?

Both live in Almonte, for one. And both will take to the stage for two shows (2PM and 7:30PM) at the upcoming Puppets Up! Chautauqua on Saturday, November 15 at the Almonte Old Town Hall.

But that's where the commonalities end. Despite her youth, Maggie Boughner is a seasoned performer; and despite her "seniority", this will be Susan Macaulay's first time on stage (as a community theatre publicist, she's normally behind the scenes).

"Maggie is an award-winning musical theatre performer and vocalist," says Chautauqua assistant director Hollie Maffenbeier. "Last year she starred as Wednesday Addams in the Mississippi Mudds' youth production of The Addams Family. This fall, in addition to the Chautauqua, she'll perform in Songs of the War Years, a fundraiser for the Almonte Legion, on November 21. Maggie is a delight, and everyone will be charmed by her range, energy, and powerful voice."

"Susan, on the other hand, is a writer, blogger, poet, and our eldest performer," adds Hollie. "She'll recite the Canadian classic The Cremation of Sam McGee by Robert Service. I was there during her audition, and are calling their newly formed group Zach and the RollerBabes. All and I guarantee her interpretation will have you howling on the edge three of them are kinda wacky in their own rights, and will undoubtedly of your seat. It's really well done, and tons of fun."

Maggie and Susan are just two of a dozen acts in what promises to be a truly varied and wonderfully entertaining line-up.

The Rosemary Breman School of Dance in Carleton Place will bring highland dancers Dorothy Lockhart, Olivia Freeman, Emma Wiggins, Cameron Wiggins, Raven McIntyre and Talia McIntyre in full Gaelic regalia.

A cross-section of Jennifer Noxon's seventy-member-strong Rhythm & Song! Community Choir will be on hand to share a selection of their uplifting, upbeat and playful repertoire. This is a rare treat, as the choir does not usually perform in public. They're making an exception own (accompanying herself on keyboard), as well as being part of the for the Puppets Up! Chautauqua.

Darren Brocklehurst, who played Bennett Rosamond in Spinning Yarns: The Millworkers' Musical, as well as Dorothy's father in The Wizard is Odd...?, is trading harmonies for punchlines in his stand-up comedy début. Is Darren a little nervous? Sure. But after decades on as musical tributes to Chautauqua sponsors Cedar Hill Christmas Tree stage, he's ready to laugh, learn, and maybe even bring the house down! Farm, 8008 Lingerie / Margaret's Closet, Ramsay Creek Garden Centre,

Almonte community theatre regulars Kristen Ritchie, Kathy Duncan and Vamos Outdoors. and Zach Brown have collaborated on a two-person, one-puppet skit

Ottawa comedian Bobby Knauff will be bringing his friend Andre the Alien, plus another special (very tall and hairy) guest to perform. Bobby won the 2012 Toronto Comedy Brawl, and has toured Canada headlining with Yuk Yuks.

Fans of barbershop won't want to miss their chance to hear Almonte's newest quartet — The Try Tones (I-r Andy Doré, James Torck, Andy Williams and Tony Bove) at the Chautauqua on November 15. Fans of other types of music... or comedy... or recitation... or puppetry... won't want to miss it either!

deliver triple the trouble when teamed up. Hilarity will surely ensue.

Speaking of funny, stand-up comic Bobby Knauff and his puppet sidekick Andre the Alien are guaranteed to keep you in stitches. Bobby has performed on The Fresh Meat Showcase at The Second City, at the North by NorthEast Music & Comedy Fest, was a semi-finalist in SiriusXM Canada's Next Top Comic, won the 2012 Toronto Comedy Brawl, has had numerous appearances on Much Music and MTV Canada, and has toured across Canada headlining with Yuk Yuks.

Actor, singer/songwriter and playwright Kelly Torck will sing on her six-member, world-renowned Jingle Belles whose five other members (Kris Riendeau, Amanda Becking, Gillian Mills, Sheila Craig and Bonnie Vallentyne) are also all accomplished vocalists. The multi-talented Bonnie Vallentyne wrote and arranged the lighthearted and whimsical jingles

Two other jingles, for Don's Meat Market and Moe's Shawarma, will be sung by The Try Tones, a recently formed barbershop quartet comprising Tony Bove, Andy Williams, James Torck and Andy Doré. This fabulous foursome will also perform a couple of songs from their own repertoire.

Last, but certainly not least, twenty-one-year-old puppeteer Liam Prince will travel from London, ON, to perform in Almonte on November 15. Liam fell in love with puppets at the age of six; he began making his own at 12. He created The Crumpits, a puppet troupe who have their own show on a London cable TV network. Liam was mentored by Noreen Young and was one of the street performers at the 2024 Puppets Up! International Puppet Festival.

Both shows will also feature the lively and talented Patti and Jon Lockhart as human hosts, along with Stephen Brathwaite, Jenny Sheffield and Zach Brown as a puppet peanut gallery. "Besides all this, we may even have a couple of surprise guests pop in," says Hollie. "It's going to be absolutely brilliant!"

Proceeds from the Chautauqua will support both the 2026 Puppets Up! Festival as well as the new Noreen Young Award for the Arts. Tickets are only $25 plus fees at <TicketsPlease.ca> or 485–6434. Come on out, support terrific performers in your community, and help raise money for two great causes!

JW-Jones at ABC Hall

On Thursday, November 20 at 7:30pm, catch the award-winning Ottawa blues artist JW-Jones featuring The Wind Chill Factor Horns on stage at the ABC Hall in Maberly. This high-energy show is also an important fundraiser for the treasured rural venue. For the third year in a row, JW-Jones will bring his "old style" blues sound with that contemporary twist to his blues-loving fans who fill the hall.

A gifted guitarist and singer/songwriter who is the epitome of an "old soul" blues man, JW-Jones is also an artist who truly engages with his audiences, bringing his warmth and humorous personality to the stage. As the renowned blues man Buddy Guy himself said, "this young man is one of the people who will keep the blues alive".

Tickets are $40 each plus fees at TicketsPlease (TicketsPlease.ca, 485-6434).

Reuse, Incineration, and Moving into the Modern Age

goods arm of The Hub, which, as everyone is short of volunteers. knows, or should know, is the grandmother of reuse in Lanark County. The Hub handles more than $50,000 to the community every year.

by Sue Brandum

Rebound was started a little less than 20 years ago, at about the same time as I was getting the REAL Deal Reuse Store going in Smiths Falls for the Rideau Environmental Action League (REAL).

Tweed Incineration Request

I was equally saddened (and frustrated) to learn that the municipality of Tweed, just down Highway 7, had sent out a request to colleague municipalities to endorse a motion to support waste incineration, or pyrolysis, for small town and rural municipalities.

I know I have too much gray hair, but I'm truly sick and tired of having to address this concept every few years. It's true, we face landfills and dumps filling up and big cities looking to create new monster landfills in rural areas in Ontario. The appeal used to sell the idea is often around the myth that they create muchneeded electricity or energy. They don't. It has been accurately said that it would be far less expensive and less problematic to run around and change all the lightbulbs in our homes than to build an incineration plant — and produce the same amount of electricity.

The list of reasons to not use incineration is well known, and includes air pollution and human health effects, high amortization costs to the municipality, and negative impacts on better waste reduction efforts.

So, what then do we do?

We all know the answer: Reduce, Reuse, Recycle. pyrolysis plants. But we need to do this with serious, systemic intent. and area. The challenge for Rebound is that it couldn't afford the rent on the space it required. This is a common challenge for all reuse operations. (Clothing is the only reuse item that makes substantial money. And even though we have lots of clothing reuse options, often run by non-profit organizations, we still send approximately 85% of clothing and fabrics way from municipal governments. In this area, virtually every municipality has some sort of reuse option for furniture, other household goods, and often some building materials — in other words, for materials that aren't the easiest to put into the Reuse stream. Lanark Highlands and Tay Valley operate two of the best known and largest reuse operations; Drummond

It was with great sadness that I learned of North Elmsley runs another. The REAL Deal store the closing of Rebound in Almonte recently. is operated by the environmental non-profit REAL Rebound was the furniture and household in Smiths Falls. Perth has a very tiny operation and

The municipality often provides the building — though not necessarily the heat! All of them are mainly clothing and small items, and returns dependent on volunteers, and those volunteers are a hardy committed bunch, often sorting in the cold

> I have often found this unconscionable. When so many companies can make good money off garbage, why should the Reuse component be left for the nonprofit and volunteer sector to struggle with?

This gets back to the issue of serious intent. It would have been far better for Tweed to call for a substantive provincial and municipal government approach to Reuse to put it on a self-sustaining basis, rather than call for incineration. And now, with the closure of Rebound, Mississippi Mills will have to integrate more garbage into its management than it did before. Where will well-intentioned people with good stuff to donate take it now?

Climate Carbon Calculations

Many of us fail to understand that the carbon dioxide we have produced in making all these materials over the past 200+ years has simply been adding up in the atmosphere, creating the crisis we are in today. We really don't need to be "wasting" that embodied energy, the embodied carbon, and frankly all that embodied human skill and creativity.

When I was born, the carbon content of the atmosphere was 314 parts per million. Today it is 421ppm. Every time I fly, or use my gasoline mower, or buy something new, I am adding to the carbon content. It doesn't draw down, it doesn't reset to zero on January 1, it just keeps adding up. So the more we can reuse materials, the less new carbon we inject into the atmosphere.

> While it's true that hardly anyone today wants to buy Grandma's huge china sideboard, it would be wonderful to think we would appreciate the wood, the skill that went into building it, and that we could reuse the materials in it at least! And not waste the carbon that was generated

Finally, if there is another argument against incineration, it is this, from a colleague: "Serious diversion takes out organics and recyclables from the waste stream, in effect leaving just plastics as the main combustible residue, and that is why the international plastics industry (along with the main oil producers) are the main promoters of incineration — the same industry that has constantly put the brakes on the proposed treaty on plastics."

Aside from all those reason citizens don't want incinerators or

In this region alone, we have seen the expensive Rebound was part of the Reuse piece in Almonte and wasteful failure of the Plasco Energy plant in Ottawa; and the citizen-led demise of similar proposals in Mississippi Mills, Burnstown, and Pontiac County across the river in Quebec. All of these were proposed or broadly suggested to handle the garbage from Lanark County.

Let's recommit to Reuse — to donating good materials and to buying them or getting them for free from the various municipal operations! And for mu-All other reuse operations have support in some nicipalities to stop being swayed by the shiny object of incineration and instead get serious about Reuse.

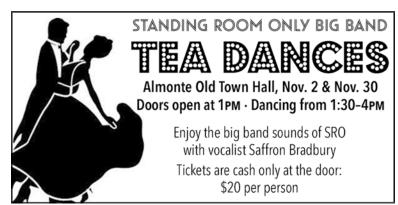

A note to donors to reuse operations: Please, if you're donating, be kind to the volunteers — don't give them your wet, dirty, soiled bags of stuff. This happens far too often, I just heard of such an example again today. Please donate only materials that are

Two Tea Dances in November!

The classic big band Standing Room Only (SRO) with vocalist Saffron Bradbury will stage the first two Sunday afternoon Almonte "Tea Dances" in the 2025/26 season on November 2 and November 30. These dances feature a variety of music for ballroom and swing dancers including swing, waltzes, and Latin (cha chas, rumbas,

Tea dances are afternoon dances that were popular in the '20s, '30s, and '40s, when big bands were king. They were held in hotels and, of course, featured a live band. As implied by "tea", beverages

These dances are held in the Auditorium on the third floor of the historic Almonte Old Town Hall at 14 Bridge Street — a beautifully preserved venue with a clean and spacious wooden dance floor, natural lighting, and wonderful acoustics.

SRO launched the popular dances in 2006. They give guests a chance to dance and listen to live big band music in a period atmosphere. They attract ballroom and swing dancers from the Ottawa area and as far away as Brockville and Deep River.

Doors open at 1PM and dancing is from 1:30–4PM. Admission is $20 per person at the door, cash only. Reservations are not required. Light refreshments including delicious treats and a range of nonalcoholic beverages will be available at reasonable prices, cash only.

The five Sunday afternoon Almonte Tea Dances in the 2025–26 season are slated for November 2, November 30, January 18, March 1, and March 29.

For more information about SRO and its tea dances, please visit <srobigband.ca> or <facebook.com/srobigband>. To receive notifications of upcoming tea dances and other public performances, you can "like" SRO's Facebook page. In addition, you can be added to SRO's email distribution list for notification emails sent out about two weeks before each tea dance, by sending an email to <srobigband@ bell.net> with the subject "Subscription Request".

Dance with The Fabulous Heartbeats

On Saturday, November 8, The Fabulous Heartbeats will bring their musical talents to the Almonte Civitan Community Hall or a very special fundraising dance.

Make it a date night with your special someone, or grab your friends and have a fun night out dancing the night away to the nostalgic music of the '50s and '60s! Doors open at 7:30PM and music starts at 8.

Tickets are $30 (including HST) and are available at Baker Bob's in Almonte, Nicholson's in Pakenham, Clayton General Store, and Burns Jewelers in Carleton Place. Or save yourself a trip and get your tickets from the comfort of your couch by visiting <almontecivitan.

All proceeds from the event go to support the Almonte Civitan Accessible Family Playground Project. It's going to be a great night, so get your tickets soon before they sell out!

Fill Your Bowl for the Youth Centre!

Join the Mississippi Mills Youth Centre for their Charity Soup Bowl Fundraiser on Saturday, November 15, at the Almonte United Church (106 Elgin Street). This cozy community event warms the heart and the stomach. Guests choose a beautifully handcrafted bowl made by local potters, enjoy a variety of delicious soups prepared by local businesses, and take their bowl home as a keepsake of the day. Tickets must be purchased in advance, so be sure to get yours early at <mmyc.ca/store>.

A Season of Light and Love

The West Ottawa Ladies Chorus is tuning up for the holiday season with two festive performances of A Season of Light and Love. Concerts will take place on Friday, November 28 at 7рм and Saturday, November 29 at 3PM at Bells Corners United Church, located at 3955 Old Richmond Road in Nepean. Tickets are $25 and can be purchased through the Chorus website at <westottawaladieschorus.ca>. Advance tickets are available from Chorus members for $20, and children under 12 are welcome to attend free of charge.

Under the direction of Allison Houston and accompanied by Peter Brown, the Chorus — comprising approximately 40 women singing in four-part harmony — promises a heartwarming program filled with the beauty and joy of the season. This year's concerts will also feature special guest musician, actor, and singer Kenny Hayes.

The West Ottawa Ladies Chorus brings together singers from across the region. While many members hail from Stittsville and Kanata, the group also includes voices from Woodlawn, Carp, Dunrobin, Carleton Place, Fitzroy Harbour, Bells Corners, Nepean, and beyond. Even the accompanist joins from Lanark, making the ensemble a true representation of the musical spirit of Ottawa and the Valley.

Three-Fifty Squares at Carleton Place Gallery

A Year of Firsts, A Season to Remember

Located at 210 Bridge Street, the Carleton Place Gallery has quickly become a vibrant centre for the arts since its opening on August 23, 2023. Under the passionate leadership of Ginny Fobert, who took sole ownership in January 2025, the gallery has been reimagined with bold direction, revitalized visuals and new programming, and has a growing reputation for having become a thriving centre for artistic

A Year of Transformation

2025 has been a year of many firsts for the gallery, beginning with a dedicated space for solo guest exhibitions. In August, it launched the first-ever outdoor art show, Riverfront Artscape, which drew thousands to the north side of the bridge and marked a new chapter for the town's cultural scene. Ending a transformative year with a festive twist, the Carleton Place Gallery is proud to announce another brand-new event, Three-Fifty Squares. Celebrate the holiday season with this curated celebration featuring original 12x12 artworks and sculptures by talented Ottawa-area artists. Each piece is priced at $350 (plus HST), offering collectors and gift-givers a unique opportunity to purchase high-quality, local fine art at an accessible price. A portion of each sale will be donated to the Carleton Place Youth Centre, with additional donations being accepted at the gallery.

From bold contemporary pieces to charming seasonal works, this exciting collection of approximately 150 pieces brings together creativity and community, all within a shared scale of 12x12 inches.

With the exhibition Three-Fifty Squares, the Carleton Place Gallery offers high quality art by Lorraine Nagy (above), Gina Bielinski (below left) and many others at an accessible price

"Art doesn't have to be intimidating or out of reach," explains Ginny. "This show celebrates creativity, connection, and community while making original art affordable and approachable."

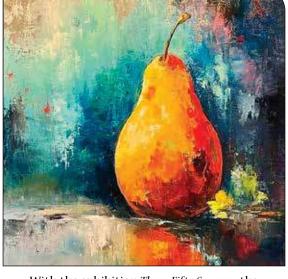

The gallery's tag line is "Elevating the Everyday Through Art". With Ginny Fobert at the helm, you can always expect something new, bold, and exhilarating at the Carleton Place Gallery. Whether it's showcasing emerging artists, hosting dynamic workshops, music concerts, or planning community-centered art events, 2026 promises even more to look forward to.

Stay tuned. Stay inspired. Stay creative.

A Curated Holiday Art Exhibition

Three-Fifty Squares kicks off with an online Big Reveal Event running from 9PM on Friday, November 21 through to 5PM on Saturday, November 22. Be among the first to explore the collection at <cpgallery.ca>, where you will be able to reserve your favourite piece for pickup on Sunday morning (any reserved works not picked up by noon on Sunday will return to open availability). Then come out to the Meet the Artist Night on Thursday, November 27 from 5–8рм. Enjoy an evening of food, fun, and live music while mingling with the creators of the work. Get to know the people, stories, and techniques that bring each piece to life.

WESTPORT HOLIDAY Merrickville Fine Arts and Christmas Show

As the holidays approach, Merrickville starts to sparkle with festive spirit. The heritage streets come alive with lights, laughter, and that wonderful mix of creativity and community that makes the village so special. It's the perfect backdrop for the Merrickville Arts Guild (MAG) Christmas Art and Fine Craft Show— a favourite local tradition that celebrates the talent and imagination of local artists.

Step inside the Merrickville Community Centre on November 22 and 23 and you'll find an amazing variety of work — silver jewellery that catches the light, colourful paintings, cozy textiles, fine woodwork, and beautiful mixed media pieces. Every item is handcrafted, one-of-a-kind, and full of heart. If you're hunting for that perfect gift (or just want to treat yourself!), this is the place to find something truly special.

MAG is thrilled to showcase the following talented artists at the show (with more to come!). Which ones catch your eye?

Joanne Anderson creates wildlife and pet portraits using coloured pencils or watercolours, capturing her subjects with striking detail. Brenda Barclay-Smith paints bold, nostalgic, whimsical, and architectural scenes that are instantly recognizable. Posy Bennett's hyper-realistic landscape oil paintings serve as windows into moments in nature, while John Chambers, an award-winning photographer, showcases wildlife and landscape images that could appear in any fine magazine.

Irene Chahley designs upcycled, rescued, and redesigned one-of-a-kind fashion pieces. Don Crowder transforms rough timber into artistic yet functional household items. Lorrane DeLangis's indoor and outdoor sculptures have been featured in local galleries. Dave Dunn blends abstract, expressionist, and realist techniques in his wildlife paintings, and Katharine Fletcher's whimsical works interpret the magic and mystery found in nature.

Derrick Hewitt creates Mi'kmaq arts, including hair tufting, inukshuks, and painted drums. Darry Kicul builds fairie houses and other wood sculptures full of wonder and whimsy. Laura Kingsbury paints distinctive landscapes sought by international collectors. Kenna McCall crafts original silver art jewellery, featuring hand-cut rare gemstones, while Pamela Prince creates wearable art jewellery using silver wire and precious stones.

Lisa McShane uses fine threads and embellishments to embroider lush fabric landscapes. August Wormitt paints in watercolours, capturing emotion and timeless moments of place. These artists offer a rich mix of media and styles, each interpreting nature, form, and imagination in their own distinct way.

But the Merrickville show is about more than shopping — it's about connection. It's a chance to meet the makers, share stories, and enjoy the warmth of community. The Starving Artists Café adds to the experience with fresh coffee, homemade treats, and a cozy place to pause and chat with friends old and new.

And when you step back outside, the magic keeps going. Merrickville's streets are always a joy to wander, especially when the lights are twinkling and shop windows are decked out for the season. Pop into a few of local boutiques or galleries, grab a warm drink or a good meal at one of the cafés, and take your time soaking it all in. You'll head home with more than just art — you'll take a bit of Merrickville's holiday spirit with you.

Nancy Rutherford's Heartwarming Journey to Publication

teacher. My memories of kindergarten are few, actually: there was nap time, sometimes we played outside, and I seem to recall eating cookies. But that's about it.

by John Pigeau

On the other hand, children's book author Nancy Rutherford, who grew up in Almonte and went to Naismith Public School, remembers her kindergarten teacher extremely well — and quite fondly.

Mrs. Young was her name. Mrs. Jane

"I was terrified when I started kindergarten," Rutherford says; she grew up in a very strict religious family. "I had already been taught to fear the world, especially those who seemed nice — 'a wolf in sheep's clothing,' as my father would say. But when I met Mrs. Young, I was mesmerized," she says. "I was captivated by her big hoop earrings, bright red lipstick, and beautiful and stylish clothes — all things I had been forbidden. I adored her. She was so gentle, kind and loving."

It was Mrs. Young's kind and gentle nature that made Rutherford realize not everyone was to be feared.

"Raised in a strict religious sect, I was taught to fear anyone outside of it," Rutherford recalls. "Mrs. Young was the first woman beyond those boundaries with whom I was able to spend time without my parents. Her warmth, kindness and vibrancy left an unforgettable mark on me. To me, she was proof that the world outside my upbringing

I don't remember my kindergarten was not only safe, but beautiful. She sparked spectives on one experience. Kids my curiosity and courage to imagine life love picking one character to cheer beyond the religion."

> When Rutherford's children's book, Exploring is NOT for Me!, was published last November, the author — who writes under the pseudonym Nancy Jean — happily dedicated the book to her beloved kindergarten teacher: Her "# 1 champion since

> The book tells the thoroughly charming tale of George and Gemma, two chihuahuas who go on a weekend camping trip with their Mumzie. George, who loves the comfort of cozy blankets at home, isn't happy about any of this, while Gemma, always ready for adventure, is super excited. They meet a motley crew of animals in the mountains, and George even takes part in a scavenger hunt. The prize is a tent full of treats! Surely even the most homesick doggie would give in. George does.

> "They both have fun but opposing personalities," Rutherford explains. "George is very particular about everything. He prefers to stay indoors; he likes soft blankets, relaxing music, and home-cooked meals. Gemma is full of energy, ready to tackle any adventure with the biggest smile on her face. She encourages George in the funniest ways with her bossy personality."

> "The idea for book one grew from my camping trips in the mountains," she adds. "George did not like any part of camping none of it. Gemma absolutely loved every aspect of it — the insects, the campfires, sleeping in a camper, exploring the wilderness — all of it. I wanted this series to help kids understand how there are different peron as they are reading the book. It's relatable for kids and adults."

Does George eventually have some fun? Well, I won't spoil it for you. But the adventures of the two chihuahuas are sure to delight children with lots of laughs, plenty of heart, and maybe a lesson or two learned along the way. The book is beautifully, vividly illustrated by Lucy Shin.

Rutherford was able to share both the story and the dedication with Mrs. Young.

"I began my career as an elementary teacher and later became a principal," Rutherford says. "Then, just as the pandemic arrived, I was diagnosed with breast cancer. Saying goodbye to my students — first due to the pandemic and then my illness was heartbreaking. Around this time, I reconnected with Jane. We were both in cancer treatment. She followed along as I developed my characters and story for this book. Although she passed away before its publication, she followed my journey closely," says Rutherford. "I miss her dearly."

As for George and Gemma, they aren't just fictional characters. No, they are both quite real, and, judging by their photos, rather adorable.

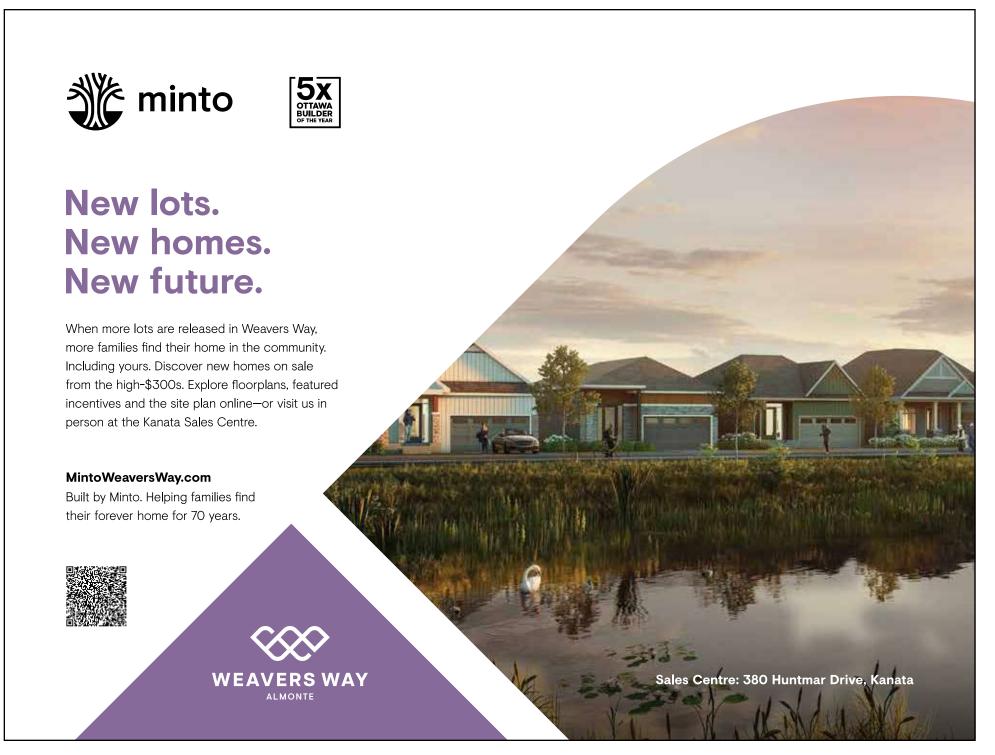

"My two chihuahuas became my daily comfort through surgery and cancer treatment," Rutherford explains. "The pandemic was a lonely experience, but I found comfort in Georgie Mazda and Gemma Lucy. They would wait at the window each day for me to return from my treatments. Unable to return to work, I started writing about them to share with others the joy they were bringing me. They were the inspiration for a children's book series."

The next book in that series, Decorating is NOT for Me!, will be out in December. It can be pre-ordered now at The Book Nook in Perth and Treasures 'n' More in Carleton Place, or at the author's website: <georgeandgemma.com>.

Nick of Time Christmas Craft Show

Perth's Nick of Time Christmas Craft Show is back for 2025, and this year it's their 32nd anniversary! Come celebrate and find the perfect Christmas gift for all your special people on Saturday, December 6 from 10AM to 3:30PM in Perth's Crystal Palace, located downtown right beside the Tay Basin.

This year's show features a great lineup that includes both new and returning artists and artisans. Expect to find gourmet chocolate, fashion accessories, fine woodworking, unique pottery, jewellery, photography and much more. The show's philosophy is to keep the quality as high as possible by featuring original juried works from over twenty gifted artisans. Plan to enjoy sweet treats and home-cooked food while chatting with artisans and neighbours. Soak up the ambiance of the Christmas music and festive decorations adorning the Crystal Palace. Shop and know that you are supporting local artisans while buying some of the best work the area has to offer.

Find funky textiles by Dagmar's Designs and delicious treats from Fine Chocolate by Ludwig at this year's Nick of Time show in Perth

The show will once again be supporting Perth's food bank — The Table Community Food Centre. Cash donations would be greatly appreciated. Look for the donation box near the main entrance to the Crystal Palace. Please give what you can!

Mark December 6 on your calendar and plan to visit the 2025 Nick of Time Christmas Craft Show. Be sure to enter the free draw for a basket of fine gift items donated by participating artisans. Admission is free, and more information about the show can be found at <facebook.com/nickoftimePerth>. If you would like to be considered as a vendor at next year's show, follow on social media for more information.

Save Our College!

By Chris Hahn

or blue sign popping up across Lanark County. They refer to the Perth Campus of Algonquin College, which is currently up for sale with all its programs shifting from within our county borders into Ottawa.

The entire Ontario college system is experiencing financial challenges. Difficult decisions are being made. On February 24, one such decision was carried by the Algonquin College Board of Governors to "exit the Perth, Ontario campus by the end of August 2026 to realize an annual recurring net financial benefit between one and two million dollars, plus the one-time cash proceeds from a sale transaction of the Perth campus."

But wait — this need not be the end of the story. We will dearly miss all the valuable programming in business, health, agriculture, social sciences and more, but there is an opportunity for a second life for the campus' unique and nationally recognized heritage construction and skilled trades training.

In 2009, the federal and provincial governments committed nearly ten million dollars of taxpayers' money to the Perth Campus. Local donors committed close to one million. These funds helped to modernize its facilities to ensure the campus' leadership in heritage trades and green technology for years to come. The result is a purposebuilt, one-of-a-kind facility in Canada to train talent to preserve, conserve, sustain, restore, renew, re-use, retrofit and revitalize our buildings. Nothing else exists like it and it's right here! Let's help keep it here doing what it does best. But how?

Over 200 people came to the Royal Ca-

You may have noticed the words on a yellow Perth resident and former Shopify Chief Operating Officer Toby Shannan, who spoke about transforming the campus into a new, locally managed, non-profit centre for heritage construction and skilled trades education. Called the "Perth Academy of Building Arts and Sciences," it would be an internationally recognized centre for heritage restoration operating under a new sustainable business model, holding conferences and symposia on techniques such as masonry, timber framing, blacksmithing, craft carpentry and more by bringing visitors from all around North America and the world.

> Consider the quote: "If you work with your hands, you are a labourer; if you work with your hands and your head, you're a craftsperson; if you work with your hands, your head and your heart... you are an artist." Lanark County is full of such talent.

> This talent includes many students who passed through the campus but stayed, raised families, started businesses or continued their learning here. These talented artists make significant contributions to our built environment, whether it is hidden from view or on full display for all to see.

> I am not sure we are fully aware of the significant contributions made to our community (let alone across Canada) by the graduates of all of Perth's programs since it joined Algonquin College in 1970. In the case of its skilled trades training, if you have appreciated the beauty of a stone house, a timber frame or barn, a church or museum, a drystone wall, a log structure or an aesthetic addition or building conversion, then chances are you bore witness to learn how. Attendees heard from life-long heritage graduate. 'Tis all the better for our community, our economy and our culture.

> Consider the quote, "The greenest building is... one that is already built." As Carl Elefante writes, "Buildings represent enormous investments in energy, material, and financial resources... yet hundreds of thousands of viable buildings are destroyed every year in the name of progress... such wastefulness is especially troubling as the world confronts climate change, ecological collapse, and ever-increasing demand for essential resources." We need to better appreciate and account for "the effectiveness of retrofit practices, and most importantly, to appreciate the crucial lessons embedded in built heritage." Simply put, if we wish to save the world, we require kind of talent that the Perth Academy can help provide.

An article written in 2016 by James Fellows for The Atlantic Magazine commented on the "11 signs a community will succeed". Included were whether the community had several craft breweries, believe it or not (signifying entrepreneurship; check), its openness to diversity (signifying strength and resilience; check), whether it has a downtown (my goodness, we are blessed with a few; check) and whether it has a local college that the community cares about. A vibrant community relies on talent. Talent can't be taken for granted. It requires nurturing. The Perth Academy would see talent continue to be attracted here, to stay here, to thrive here.

ented practitioners of ideas, culture, music, arts and sciences. I have lost count of the number of times I have read one of these stories and recited the words "graduate of the Perth campus". Like the sentiment expressed in the Christmas movie It's a Wonderful Life, we must unfortunately ask ourselves "What will life be like without the Perth Campus?" Whatever the answer is, I know it will contain the word, "less". Instead, it is time to ask, "What will life be like with the Perth Academy... and can I help bring it into being?" The answers are "more" and "yes"!

An Evening with Merrickville Authors

The Merrickville Arts Guild (MAG) is delighted to partner with the Merrickville Organization for Culture & the Arts (MOCA) to host a special edition of Conversations on Thursday, November 13 at the Merrickville Legion. There are several accomplished authors who live in Merrickville and the surrounding area, and five of them have been invited to be part of a panel discussion about their journey as authors.

This is a great opportunity to ask local authors about their craft and learn about the challenges and successes of becoming a published writer. Doors open at 7PM and the discussion will take place from 7:30–9:30 рм. Please note that participation at this event is free for MAG members, and non-members will be asked to contribute $5 at the door. MAG looks forward to seeing you at this exciting event!

Advent to Christmas by

According to Dr. Seuss, "Maybe Christmas doesn't come from a store. Maybe Christmas... perhaps... means a little bit more!" Christmas is a special time at St. James Anglican Church in Perth, and again this year the choir will provide everyone with a beautiful opportunity to experience that "little bit more".

For many years, the people of Perth have enjoyed "9 Lessons and Carols" at St. James. This special celebration of the Christmas story now has a shorter format that will be sure to delight listeners of all ages. "Advent to Christmas by Candlelight" will take place on Sunday, December 7 at 4PM at St. James.

Peter Woodwark and Val Leavitt, music directors at St. James, are pleased to invite the people of Perth to hear the St. James Choir retell the Christmas story in song. Because most of us enjoy singing some of the old favourites ourselves, Christmas carols will alternate with readings to tell the story of Christ's birth.

Guest artists Sylvia Goodeve and Patrick Kline (piano and cello) will accompany most of the carols and anthems during the hour-long service. Brad Mills, organist at St. Paul's United Church and longtime friend and partner of St. James, will accompany two of the carols on organ.

The choir at St. James Anglican Church in Perth will be joined by other musical guests for an Advent to Christmas by Candlelight on December 7

All are welcome to experience that "little bit more" of Christmas in this warm and festive candlelight celebration. A freewill offering will be gratefully accepted at the door.

Perth Community Choir Presents Elf the Musical

Get ready for a festive holiday adventure with the brings warmth and wit to the role of Jovie, while Perth Community Choir's production of Elf the Brenda Noonan delights as Mrs. Claus. Musical! Based on the beloved film, this heartwarming and hilarious show features an unforgettable score by Matthew Sklar and Chad Beguelin. Filled with laughter, music and Christmas spirit, it's the perfect outing to kick off the holiday season.

Directed by David Bird, this year's production brings together a vibrant multi-age cast of local performers; a hallmark of the Perth Community Choir. Kristen Widenmaier adds her signature energy as choreographer, while Alex Guerin leads the music with support from Mary-Ellen Grigor and Leah Williams. Together, they create a joyful, high-energy production that will have audiences smiling from Brent Maguire stars as the cheerful and largerthan-life Buddy the Elf, with Chris Angel as his nononsense father Walter Hobbs, Kristy Tait-Angel as Emily Hobbs, and Addy Brown and Gaelan Cosens sharing the role of Michael Hobbs. Elli McKean Kerr appearance by Santa himself!

Adding even more sparkle to the cast, Kristen Widenmaier also has an onstage role as Deb, the office assistant, joined by Duncan King and Guthrie Cleroux as Walter's office staff. Robert Del Grande steps into the role of Mr. Greenway, Walter's demanding boss, while Ron Cosens brings his trademark humour to the Store Manager, and Josh Gallant takes on the hilarious Store Santa, delivering laughs and a few surprises along the way.

The production features a large and talented ensemble, with both familiar and new faces bringing the North Pole and New York City to life.

Elf the Musical runs November 13-16 at the Mason Auditorium at PDCI. Showtimes are November 13-15 at 7рм and November 15 and 16 at 2рм.

Lots On at Union Hall!

By Linda Camponi

Union Hall is now ready for year-round operation, thanks to a Trillium grant and the work of our tireless volunteers! We look forward to cozy gatherings all winter long, now that we have energy-efficient heat pumps and insulated walls and attic. The hall is a popular venue for family celebrations, as well as yoga classes, meetings, public events and craft sales. With year-round availability, the calendar is filling up with events and activities. And we now have high-speed Internet at the facility, thanks to Storm Internet Services.

To learn more about Union Hall and the surrounding community, or to rent the hall or the outdoor sign, go to our website at <union-hall.org>. We also have a Facebook page with all the latest news.

Union Hall volunteers continue to make and sell beautifully crafted hardwood cutting boards and one-of-a-kind fabric crafts. Because all the materials and labour are donated, 100% of the purchase price goes directly to Union Hall's Renovation Fund.

On Saturday, November 15, from 10AM until 2PM, we will be holding our annual Community Builders' Craft Fair at the hall, where we join with other charities and non-profit organizations to raise awareness and much-needed cash for important work in our community. Come and get an early start on your Christmas shopping! This year The Hub, the Mississippi Valley Textile Museum, and Stir it Up Collective will be returning, along with one or two new organizations. A light lunch of homemade soup, biscuits and other goodies will be available for purchase, along with Stir It Up blend Equator coffee, tea and cold beverages.

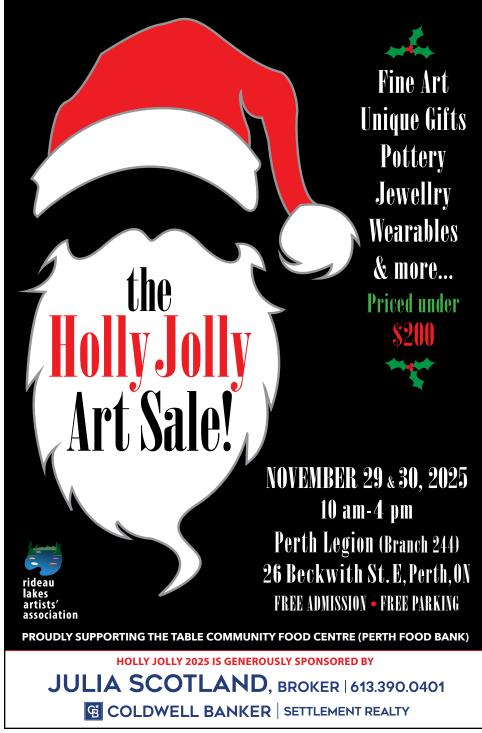

Union Hall is abuzz with activity this fall and winter!

Our annual Community Potluck will be held this year on Saturday, November 22. Bring the family and meet your neighbours while enjoying the good cheer. We confidently predict a delicious meal!

Join us at the John Levi Community Centre on Saturday, November 29 for the Almonte Farmers' Market's Christmas Market, always lots of fun, with music and delicious food served up along with fall garden produce, wreaths and hand-crafted gifts.

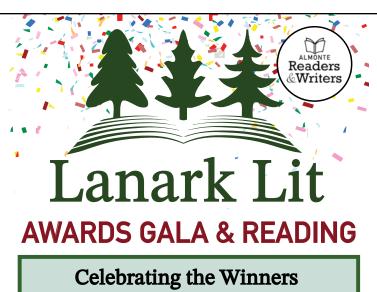

The Union Hall Community Centre, constructed in 1857, is a Registered Charitable Organization which is maintained and operated by volunteers, with financial assistance from the Municipality of Mississippi Mills and The Hub, along with donations from private individuals who value the contribution of Union Hall to the community. Several local businesses (listed on our website) support us by providing discounts or even free services or products. For more information about the hall or any of the upcoming events, check out the website or contact Linda at <camponi@storm.ca> or 256–2277.

Meet Marvin — A Heroic Master Mason

Marvin Vissoni is a real-life hero. Living in the highlands of western Guatemala, he grew up in a home where all meals were cooked over an open fire. The smoke filled the small shelter and adversely affected the health of everyone in the family, but especially Mom and the young kids who spent most of their day with their mother as she worked. Marvin vividly remembers the pervasive smoke and creosote-coated walls.

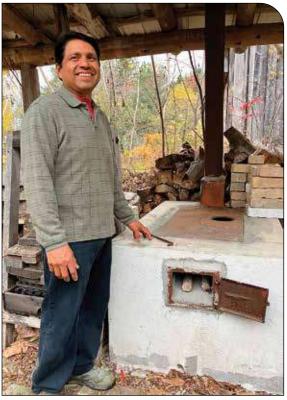

Living with indoor air pollution isn't what makes Marvin a hero. Many people in Guatemala (and in impoverished areas around the world) continue to cook over an open fire and are exposed to toxic smoke because they have no other choice. Marvin is a hero because he has personally built 1500 efficient masonry cookstoves with chimneys that take the harmful smoke outside and allow families to breathe clean air in their homes.

Each of those stoves serves a family consisting of an average of 6 people. This means Marvin has directly helped approximately 9000 fellow Mayans live healthier and therefore longer lives. That is what makes him a hero.

Marvin and several other masons are hired by three Guatemalan aid organizations funded by money raised right here in the Ottawa Valley through the local charity The Guatemala Stove Project. The GSP has raised enough money over the past 25 years to build over 8500 clean, efficient masonry cookstoves. Besides ridding homes of toxic indoor air pollution, the stoves also reduce the amount of fuel needed by half, which means the release of CO₂ from burning is also reduced by half. These stoves save lives and fight climate change — wow!

The Guatemala Stove Project also funds microloans and educational bursaries for rural girls who might not get the opportunity to complete an education past grade 5 or 6.

Perhaps you are a hero as well, having donated to the GSP or attended one of its fundraising events. If so, you have made a tangible difference in the lives of amazing people who are struggling in very difficult circumstances. The GSP sees all donors to this cause as heroes.

Meet Marvin Vissoni — a mason who has built 1500 masonry cookstoves in Guatemala — at the Guatemala Stove Project's dance on November 15!

This month you can help the GSP help others by participating in their online auction taking place from November 6–10 at <32auctions.com/2025gsp>. When you log in you can donate a stove, microloan or educational bursary, or you can bid on an interesting item to start your holiday shopping.

The organization will also be holding a fundraising dance including a silent auction at the Perth Civitan on Saturday, November 15 featuring the music of the great local band, Open Road. If you come, you can meet Marvin, who is visiting his friends here in Lanark County!

When I opened my cafe in 1997, scones were not a • Mix in fruit common offering in the Ottawa Valley — "Texas- • sized" muffins were all the rage. The Good Food Co. scones were really more of a tea biscuit recipe, with extra butter and buttermilk. We experimented a lot with different flavour combinations!

½ teaspoon extract/spices/citrus zest

1 cup buttermilk — approximate measure!

- Mix together flour, sugar, baking powder, salt, and spices and/or zest if using
- Cut in or grate butter into flour mixture and toss with fork
- Slowly add buttermilk while stirring with fork until dough starts to come together — turn out onto work surface and drizzle more buttermilk while mixing with your hands until a workable dough forms; do not add too much buttermilk to start with or the dough will be too soft and wet — the amount needed will vary depending on how wet your fruit is
- Form into circle approx. 1-½ inches thick
- Cut into 8 wedges (like a pie) and distribute evenly on silicone mat or lightly greased cookie sheet (dough can also be cut into smaller rounds with
- Bake at 375°F for 12 to 15 minutes, depending on type of oven used

Friends of the Library Christmas Book Sale

By Barbara Carroll

The Friends of the Mississippi Mills Public Library Christmas Book Sale started in 2024 as an experiment and was such a success we decided to do it again this year. Unlike our Fall Sale, this is not an opportunity to drop off books you want to pass on — it's a chance to do some Christmas shopping. We feature books of every genre in good to near-new condition, some sold individually, some sold in sets. Everything is individually priced, and many of the books and sets are wrapped and/or tied with a beautiful bow. They are ready to go. Easy peasy!

This sale will be held over one weekend in December at the Rexall Mall, 430 Ottawa St., in Almonte. The location is right beside Rexall Drugs. This year, the dates are Friday, December 5 from 12-5PM; Saturday, December 6 from 10AM-4PM; and Sunday, December 7 from 11AM-3PM.

We invite you to come, experience a holiday atmosphere with the Friends, purchase some wonderful Christmas gifts, and support our Library. We had already broken our record of annual donations to the library by the end of the summer... then came our Annual Fall Book Sale, and now our Christmas Book Sale. Help us blow it out of the water in 2025 so our Library can continue supporting the community in the style to which we have become accustomed!

For more details, find the Friends on Facebook.

Help the Friends of the Mississippi Mills Public Library support great local programming by buying gently used books at their Christmas Sale, taking place at the Rexall Mall from December 5-7

The Riversong Players

If you visited Almonte during the month of October, you might have encountered a melancholic Shakespearean character, been serenaded by a Creepy Choir or members of a Creepy Cabaret... or perhaps you were brave enough to join the Haunted Walk!

What you might not have noticed are the rehearsals that are in full swing at the Almonte Old Town Hall, as the Riversong Players prepare to delight audiences with A Christmas Story: The Musical. The intergenerational ensemble is hard at work!

Step into the holiday magic of A Christmas Story, the beloved tale of Ralphie Parker and his quest for the ultimate Christmas gift — a Red Ryder BB gun. Filled with warmth, laughter and nostalgia, this musical adaptation brings cherished memories to life with catchy songs, heartwarming humour, and a reminder of the joy and chaos of family holidays.

Performances will take place on December 12, 13 and 14 at the Almonte Old Town Hall, and tickets can be purchased through TicketsPlease (TicketsPlease.ca, 485–6434). Delight your family this holiday season! Tickets are $30 for general admission, $25 for kids, plus fees. For more information, please visit their website at <riversongplayers.com>.

After an October filled with haunted walks and ghost choirs, Almonte's Riversong Players are gearing up for their December production of A Christmas Story: The Musical!

The MERA Christmas Fair

The MERA Christmas Fair returns this year on Saturday November 8 from 9AM to 3PM. Come out to the MERA Schoolhouse in McDonald's Corners (974 Dalhousie Concession 9a) and start your holiday shopping by supporting local makers and creators. MERA has hosted this event since 2005, inviting local artisans to showcase unique items for sale. Another bonus is an art exhibition presented by the MERA Art Circle. A nutritious light lunch will be provided at the café, and there will also be a bake sale and a draw featuring donated items from vendors.

This year's Christmas Fair has thirteen vendors including Fine Chocolate by Ludwig, jewellery and sculptures by Ellen Fraser, vegan soaps by Mars Lil Shop, unique fabric creations by Carly's Cabin Creations, resin creations by Stationhouse Studio, woodworking by Tim Booth and Barry Russell, woodturning by Keith Johnson, wire-wrapped jewellery by PJ's Pretties, cards and artwork by Emily Wilson, handmade heritage weaving by the MERA Weavers, one-of-a-kind pottery by the MERA Pottery Studio, and art by the MERA Art Circle.

By shopping at the MERA Christmas Fair, you are also helping this local arts and recreation facility to hold more music events, workshops, community dinners and much more. For more information, please visit <meraschoolhouse.org>.

Ben Caplan at The Cove

What makes music sound original? Sometimes it can be an we have. After so many years of doing this, I still don't unmistakable voice, or a tone unlike anyone else's. Halifax's Ben Caplan is a perfect example of someone whose sound is so distinctive that it's hard to compare him to other artists. music in any location, context, or setting. That said, Though I haven't seen him perform live yet, we are honoured to present this great Canadian folk artist at The Cove on Friday, November 28, as part of the Ontario Festival of Small Halls. Tickets for dinner and the show, or just the show, are available artform, and I love making it, but playing live has a at <ontariosmallhalls.com>. I reached out to him in advance of the show to learn about his influences and what our audience and literally unique. Having the support to be able to has in store.

by Seamus Cowan

Seamus Cowan: Your voice is incredibly distinctive. Did it develop naturally, or were there key influences?

Ben Caplan: I wish I could say there was some grand plan behind it, but honestly, it's mostly the result of time and life. I was never trained formally as a singer, so I found my voice by trial, error, and necessity. I grew up listening to a lot of gravelly singers like Tom Waits, Leonard Cohen, even some Eastern European cantors. I absorbed a lot from that. There are some horn players who have been really influential for how I think about breath, phrasing, and timbre — especially Louis Armstrong adapting, building community around small spaces, and John Zorn. But more than influence, it's really about emotional truth. The thing I always strive for in my singing is honesty.

I can hear the old European folk traditions in your sound. Does that come from family roots?

My roots are in Ashkenazi Jewish culture, so I was surrounded by fragments of Eastern European melody and storytelling from an early age. That music has always carried both sorrow and defiance in equal measure, which feels like home to me. I'm drawn to old-world modes and rhythms because they bridge the sacred and the profane — they're both lament and celebration. I wouldn't say I'm recreating those traditions, but I'm definitely shaped by them. They show up in my writing whether I invite them or not.

With a nationwide Canadian tour happening this fall, it seems you have built quite an audience. What does this support mean for you as a creative force?

Touring has always been the most important thing for me. There's something deeply human and spiritual about gathering people in a room to share stories and songs — it's one of the oldest forms of connection take that for granted.

It's a great modern luxury to be able to listen to for me, the true essence of music is human creativity, fallibility, and connection expressed as an ephemeral sculpture in time. Recorded music is an incredible sacred fleeting impermanence that makes it truly sustain creating art in that way means the world to me.

You've worked with some amazing Montreal musicians — Pemi Paul, Joe Grass, Eric Hove, Andy King. How do you see the current state of Canada's creative scene?

Canada has a staggering amount of talent. What's remarkable to me is how collaborative and cross-pollinating the scene has become. Musicians like Pemi, Joe, Eric, Andy — they all bring a kind of generosity to the work. We have fewer venues than we used to, and re-imagining what sustainable art-making can look like. It's not easy, but it's real.

Your new album The Flood is powerful and deeply emotional. What's at its core?

The Flood is about surrender and transformation. It's about what happens when life washes everything away and you're forced to rebuild from the mud.

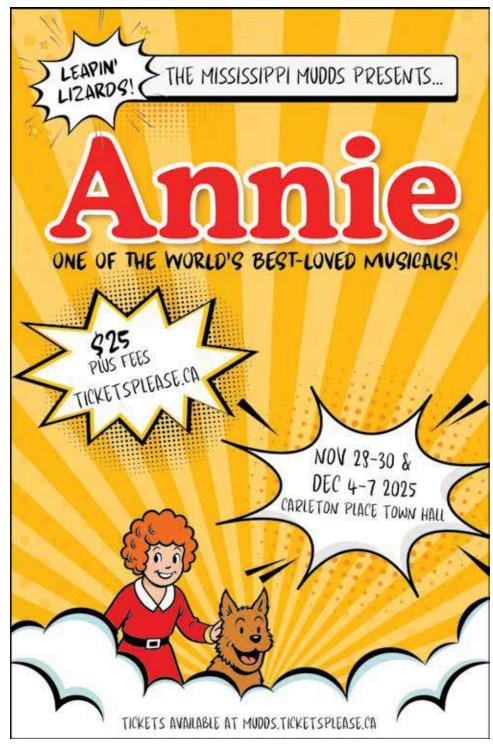

The Festival of Small Halls brings Ben Caplan to The Cove Inn on November 28

and the economics are tougher than ever, but there's For me, it was born out of a few years of loss and still a spirit of creation that refuses to die. Artists are upheaval — personally, creatively, and globally. The flood, in that sense, isn't destruction; it's renewal. The record wrestles with fear, faith, and the fragile hope that beauty can still emerge from chaos. I wanted it to sound like both the storm and the sunrise after it.

Bluegrass Christmas with The Barrel Boys

On Saturday, December 6, celebrate the holiday season previous release, Mainline, earned them a nomination in Smiths Falls with one of Canada's most beloved bluegrass bands, The Barrel Boys. Their enchanting melodies and heartwarming harmonies bring a delightful blend of folk, bluegrass and Americana to your seasonal festivities. From timeless carols to original compositions, their holiday show captures the season's essence, infusing every note with warmth and memory. Join them for a magical Christmas show that will fill your heart with joy and leave you with cherished memories of the most wonderful time of the year.

Established in 2012, The Barrel Boys are a bluegrass powerhouse with soaring harmonies, blazing picking, and an infectious stage presence. Their music blends tradition and originality into a soulful roots experience that has earned the Boys a special place in the hearts of Canadian music fans from coast to coast. In June 2025 they released Chicken in the Window, their fourth full-length album of original music. Their Trinity United Church at 283-4444.

for Vocal Group of the Year at the 2021 Canadian Folk Music Awards.

Sasha Berndt of Hugh's Room Live describes their music as: "... a blend of soul-soaked country and raw, indie bluegrass — nostalgic without being corny, emotional without feeling overdone. There's grit in it, and comfort too. Like a familiar smell you haven't noticed in years."

The band is made up of Rob McLaren on banjo, Ben Wright on guitar, Tim O'Reilly on bass, and Smiths Falls resident Nathan Smith on fiddle. The concert takes place on Saturday, December 6 at 7:30PM at Trinity United Church, located at 41 Market St. N

Tickets are $25 in advance, $30 at the door, and $10 for children under 13. Advance tickets can be purchased at <thebarrelboys.com/shows> or through

Mississippi Mills as an Abundant Community

Introducing the Mississippi Mills Community Fund

As "Giving Tuesday" draws near on December 2, our community. Giving Tuesday is an opportunity to give back, and we encourage everyone in Mississippi Mills to give before the end of the year to realize any

As I reflect on the power of community, I recall having had the privilege of driving John McKnight on a four-day speaking tour across Eastern Ontario roughly 12 years ago. What I thought would be a simple job quickly became a master class in community development. John, who passed away in 2024, is fondly remembered as a professor at Northwestern University in Chicago, and more widely as the father of Asset-Based Community Development (ABCD). His approach focuses on the strengths and resources a community already has, rather than on its needs

He was well into his eighties when we spent this memorable time together. I drove and asked questions, and John shared his wisdom. During the civil rights era in the fifties and sixties he helped southern Black families who left the mechanized farms to find work in the factories around Chicago.

At one point he worked for the John F. Kennedy administration as one of the architects of the Affirmative Action Program. He was there, just a few rows He reminded me that when we trust in a community's back at the Lincoln Memorial in Washington, when gifts and its ability to act, that trust itself becomes a Martin Luther King gave his "I Have a Dream" speech.

As we drove shoulder to shoulder across Eastern Ontario, he taught me what community really means, have come together to create the Mississippi Mills gifts. That government systems are well conceived, your gift to Mississippi Mills charities strengthens but the strength of a community is down in our neighbourhoods, on a personal level. Communities are safer when neighbours know neighbours, not simply when there are more police. They're healthier when residents aren't lonely, because hospitals can't cure loneliness.

> He defined the key aspects of ABCD as seeing that communities are often viewed through what they lack ommunities are safer when neighbours know neighbours, not simply when there are more police. They're healthier when residents aren't lonely, because hospitals can't cure loneliness.

they already have. These "assets" are the resources that already exist in the community — human talents, local associations, institutions, and physical places — all of which can be mobilized for positive change. "What do we have?" and "What can we do with what we already have?" are the questions it starts by asking. catalyst for change.

Here in Mississippi Mills, dedicated volunteers and how abundant life is when everyone shares their Community Fund (MMCF). This fund has been created with these same principles in mind — that we are an abundant community, one that truly cares for and supports all its residents.

The MMCF is currently building an endowment — a fund where the capital is invested, offering a return that gets granted into community initiatives which in turn help the town to be the best it can be. The larger the endowment, the greater the impact for the community. MMCF receives back-office support from the long-standing Ottawa Community Foundation. They help by investing the endowment of the MMCF and offering charitable receipts to donors of our fund. Their volunteer investment (needs, problems, deficits) — whereas ABCD starts team, consisting of leading Canadian economists, manage annual returns

> (up to 15% in recent years). It's a partnership that gives us strong financial stewardship while keeping the focus local.

> The MMCF complements the work of other community charities. Its objective is to build a new legacy endowment that will keep giving back for generations

> In September, The Hub (Almonte Community Coordinators) supported the MMCF endowment by committing an incredible $25,000 — five thousand dollars a year over with what people can do, what gifts and capacities five years. This generous donation helps to kickstart our endowment and our current campaign goal of $50,000.

> In John McKnight's spirit, we can see every day that Mississippi Mills is an abundant community.

> The Mississippi Mills Community Fund rests on a simple belief: when neighbours share their gifts, the whole community thrives. Join us in building an endowment that will keep giving back to our community year after year. You can learn more and donate online today at <mmcommunityfund.ca>.

WCAS Artistic Creations

By Kat McClure

The West Carleton Arts Society (WCAS) is delighted to announce that its holiday sale "Artistic Creations" will return this fall! This exhibition and sale will showcase the creative talents of 21 artists from the Ottawa region. There will be photography, paintings, hand bound books, wood burning, ornaments, wood carvings and more, all priced at $200 and under.

This annual show is again being held at the Carp Mess Hall, located at 2240 Craig Side Road, just past the Diefenbunker, 1.6km north-west of the Carp Fairgrounds. It takes place on Friday, November 28 from 3–8pm, and Saturday the 29th from 9AM to 4pm. The venue is fully accessible (no stairs).

WCAS supports local young artists with a bursary to the West Carleton High School Arts Program. Each year this money goes to a student, chosen by the art teacher, who has done outstanding work in the program. Students from West Carleton also volunteer their time to help out at the show.

We welcome everyone to come and spend time chatting with our artists, to enjoy their wonderful artworks, and perhaps to pick up some gifts for the holiday season. Admission and parking are free.

Being Cyrano

Check your calendar. Are you busy on Sunday, November 16 at 2рм? No? Here's a great idea for a special way to spend the afternoon.

The Mississippi Mills Film Society presents Being Cyrano (Dans la peau de Cyrano) upstairs at the Almonte Legion. No driving into the city, and proceeds go to the Mississippi Mills Public Library for special programming — a great way to support the library while enjoying the company of film buffs in the community.

After his parents' divorce, Colin, a 14-year-old boy, moves with his mother to her father's hometown, far from where his father lives. The start of the school year is a source of anxiety for him, as he fears being bullied by his new classmates because of his difficulty with speaking.

Encouraged by his budding friendship with Maxence, a queer student, his growing feelings for his cousin Adélaïde, and the infectious passion of his French teacher, Mr. Devarseau, Colin joins the theatre workshop led by the teacher. Without his mother's knowledge — she is intent on protecting him — he sets out to audition for a role in the group's production of Cyrano de Bergerac.

Olivia Levy of La Presse had this to say about this lovely movie: "Colin's (Joachim Arseguel) story is universal. His stutter is difficult for a teenager to live with; shame, fear of others' opinions, and mockery affect his self-esteem. The director sensitively explores very contemporary themes: gender identity, parental divorce, difference, family, and returning

The film won five awards, including Best Film, at the Montreal International Children's Film Festival, and was enjoyed by children and adults alike!

Tickets are only $15 from <TicketsPlease.ca>, or by calling 485–6434.

Danah-Lee's Social Justice

A Bold, Hope-Filled Soundtrack for Change

Award-winning Canadian singer-songwriter, music educator, and church music director Danah-Lee announces the launch of Social Justice, a powerful new album blending pop-inflected songwriting with faith-rooted, LGBTQ2S+-affirming themes. Now available on all global platforms, the record invites listeners to reflect and take heart, pairing anthemic choruses with lyrics that champion belonging, compassion, and courageous love.

The album opens with haunting pedal steel, belllike piano, and the signature picking of Ottawa Valley Country Music Hall of Famer Jon Park Wheeler. Then come Danah-Lee's honeyed, crystal-clear vocals:

In the shadow lands where hope feels thin

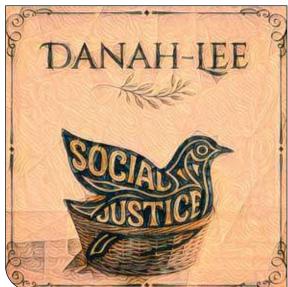

I pray Your name like oxygen

Steady on

Every scar is a sacred map

It points me where you had my back

The theme is simple but powerful: "Steady On." The act of pushing forward in faith as a queer Christian is one Danah-Lee knows intimately, having wrestled with her own identity in the context of faith.

"I wrote Social Justice for anyone who's ever felt on the margins — of church, of community, or of their own story," she says. "These songs are honest struggles of faith. They are prayers. You can dance to some, others you can sing as protest anthems, and all of them are reminders that our best worship sounds like justice, kindness, and joy."

Recorded at More Than A Song Studios and crafted with Danah-Lee's signature attention to melody and message, Social Justice channels the energy of modern pop while staying grounded in the intimacy of singersongwriter storytelling. The album's sonic palette blends piano-driven hooks, luminous harmonies, heart-wrenching pedal steel and shimmering guitars, supporting narratives of faith, reconciliation, radical welcome and everyday hope.

The first single, Even Angels, has already spent four weeks in the Top 10 of Pride Radio Canada's The New Queer Canada Music Chart and is currently holding strong at #3 nationally.

EODL One-Acts in Merrickville

This November, the charming village of Merrickville will transform into a vibrant hub of theatrical talent as it hosts an unforgettable weekend of drama, comedy and creativity. From November 7–9, nine theatre groups from across Eastern Ontario will gather to perform nine different one-act plays during the highly anticipated Eastern Ontario Drama League (EODL) One-Act Festival, proudly hosted by Theatre Night in Merrickville (TNIM).

This year is particularly special, as TNIM is celebrating its 50th anniversary — a milestone that speaks to the organization's enduring passion for community theatre. "Theatre Night in Merrickville is honoured to welcome the troupes to our historic village," says Helen Steenburgh, festival chair and TNIM past president. "We hope that they will have a successful and fun competition."

Tickets are just $20 per session, or $50 for a weekend pass. Tickets for the Awards Brunch are $35. For tickets and full festival details, please visit <merrickvilletheatre.org>.

Arsenic and Old Lace

North Grenville Community Theatre is performing the devastatingly funny comedy Arsenic and Old Lace from November 13–16 at the Urbandale Arts Centre in Kemptville. Kemptville's beloved community theatre group last performed this play in 1986. That performance — 39 years ago — was in Parish Hall in the Kemptville Campus. This time it will be in the Urbandale Arts Centre, right next to the hockey arena. What else has changed? Maybe not as much as one might expect. For one thing, in 1986 local media reported that rehearsals were invigorated by the bugle-tooting efforts of George Lamacraft, who was playing Teddy Brewster. It seems George's sounds never did reach pure musicality. Fast-forward to now — and this year's Teddy is once again bringing a real edge to the bugle playing.

Lee Gaw, who played Martha Brewster last time, has decided to do it again. No one else in the cast was in the 1986 show, which might seem to put them at a disadvantage, but they are all outstanding actors. The 2025 crew has built windows and platforms and stairs — and the costume department has dressed everyone to suit the era perfectly. It is going to be an unforgettable experience, and tickets have been selling well.

dreary drama based on some horrible crimes that took place in Connecticut over a hundred years ago. But in 1939 the producers looked at the original script and decided that people wouldn't want to watch such a dismal story. So they told the author to make it funny, and he did — by changing just about everything. It is now perfect for family entertainment around Hallowe'en.

Arsenic and Old Lace does have some scary moments — and the body count gets up around a dozen. In fact, if you count brother Jonathan's contributions, it would be a couple of dozen. No matter, we can guarantee that there is a happy ending, for available online at <NGCT.ca>, and paper tickets are the survivors.

Abby Brewster (at right, played by Cathie Raina) and Martha Brewster (played by Lee Gaw) chat over a cuppa

Another way of looking at this play is as a sweet This play was originally going to be a dark and romance. Our boy Mortimer eventually falls in love with the beautiful girl next door — the very persistent Elaine. He can't do much about that love stuff for a while, because his busy career as a drama critic makes him grumpy most of the time. Finally he asks Elaine to marry him, and she says yes! Joy abounds and the lovers share some cheery moments together in the cemetery before — later the same day — complications ensue...

> There will be evening performances on November 13, 14 and 15 at 7:30pm, and a matinée on Sunday, November 16 at 1PM. All performances are at the Urbandale Arts Centre in Kemptville. Tickets are sold at B&H Your Community Grocer in Kemptville.

The Light Between Layers

I met John Martin at his home in Westport on an afternoon when the sun, gold and luminous, seemed made for stained glass. His brick heritage home, which he shares with his wife Krista, a novelist, is filled with art and sculpture from family and friends. I'm already inspired. Out back, he leads me to his studio, which he renovated himself. Two large workbenches anchor the space, along with a drafting table, a light table, and a tall light easel where, he says, he finds the best inspiration. This is Solar Temple Studio, a reminder of how remarkable talent often thrives in quiet, unexpected places.

This is a place to behold, where beauty courts peril and light itself becomes the artist's most dangerous, dazzling medium.

Kim Lulashnyk: John, you describe yourself as a classical stained glass artist, specifically, a glass painter. For those unfamiliar, what does that mean?

John Martin: When people hear "stained glass," they often think of craft pieces like sun catchers, McCausland Studio, a masterful piece. I looked up, copper-foiled panels, or colourful window decorations. But what I do is traditional painted stained glass, a discipline that goes back centuries. I paint directly onto glass using finely ground pigments, things like bistre, silver stain, or grisaille, mixed with water, vinegar, or oils such as lavender or clove. The whole studio ends up smelling like Christmas.

The paint is fired in a kiln so it fuses permanently to the surface. You're not just adding colour, you're modulating light, creating line, tone, and texture. Even bad stained glass will hold your imagination because you're looking through the image as much as at it. It's an incredibly powerful medium.

design to finished piece?

It starts with a full-size drawing called a cartoon — that's the blueprint for everything. From that, I they understand the language of glass, they can speak create a cutline pattern for the glass and a leadline it fluently in their own way. pattern showing how the pieces will be joined.

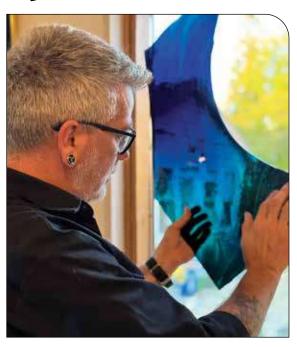

Then comes the cutting, painting, and firing; sometimes a single piece might go through five or it took me to find someone to teach me. I want to six firings. Flesh tones, drapery, background texture, each layer builds the image. Once everything's fired, it's assembled like a jigsaw puzzle, only instead of cardboard, you're using malleable lead cane to frame each piece. You vary the widths of the lead to add rhythm and weight to the design.

the window. There are safety considerations when working with it, of course, but once the panel's finished and sealed, it's completely stable.

How did you find your way into this world?

It was a winding road. I'd always drawn and painted; I even did tattooing in the early '90s for a while. But I hit a point when I was about 30 years old where I thought, what am I really going to focus on?

One day, when I was working as a bike courier, I made a delivery to Old City Hall in Toronto, and there was this enormous stained glass window by and it was like getting struck by lightning. I know it sounds so cliché, but I knew instantly: This is it. This is the medium that brings everything together.

It combined drawing, painting, symbolism, narrative, all the things I loved, with light itself as part of the work. That was my epiphany moment.

Once you had that revelation, how did you actually learn the art?

That was the hard part. Back then, glass painting in Canada was a closed shop, people guarded their techniques like trade secrets. It took me a year and a half to find someone willing to teach me.

Eventually, I connected with a studio in Etobicoke called Fantasy in Glass. I took a beginner stained glass class, then studied painting with a few wonderful teachers, Lorena Diaz and Judi Waymark. Judi had actually been one of Canada's first female tattoo artists back in the day. She saw my interest right away and took me under her wing.

From there, it was a long stretch of self-teaching and experimentation and then, in 2019, I began working with Mark Thompson, one of the top stained glass artists and conservators in Canada, on the Parliament restoration project. That was a huge education.

You're also a teacher yourself now. What's your approach to passing on these skills?

I've taught close to eighty students by now, everything from absolute beginners to emerging artists. I run classes in Hamilton and at Wink Studio, which is run by Jennifer Stearns, a real powerhouse in glass education.

When I'm teaching, it's not about self-expres-Can you walk us through the process, from sion right away — it's about materials. I provide the design so students can focus on technique: how to mix paint, how to fire it, how to control values. Once

> And I keep classes small, three people max at my studio, six at Wink, because I remember how long make sure nobody else has to wait that long. I love teaching and am always looking for new students here in Westport.

What do you hope people take away when they see your work?

I think most people have seen stained glass, but few Lead has a kind of gravitas. It's the backbone of understand how it works, how light passes through a painted surface and turns it into something living. For me, it's about that alchemy, taking earth and metal and fire, and making light visible. It's both technical and spiritual.

> Even when I'm frustrated with a piece, or tearing it apart to fix something, I never stop being amazed that a handful of sand and minerals can hold a story seen? Aren't the maples absolutely beautiful? We say this every we were with our good friends, but also because it was year, and yes, we mean it. I must have a hundred pictures of history we had never encountered. It's not one we could our woods in full splendour. When it's bleak mid-winter, I open ever duplicate either, since who now owns a cassette my gallery and look at the colour, and know it'll happen again.

At least once a month, Alan and I do a Jones Mystery Tour. It starts out as a route to somewhere, and always ends up on Sisters of the Wilderness from Peterborough to the country sideroads that invariably lead us to Perth, from whence we have to come home on a crowded highway. We always say

we'll remember this, but we never do. Further, going and coming are two entirely different views, and while we're busy gawking at the scenery, we miss the turnoff we should have taken, and find all sorts of wonderful are behind us for now. We might make it all the way sights. When we get to a crossroad we think recognize, our favourite to Arnprior or Fitzroy Harbour, but that'll likely be saying is, "Oh, we're right here. Now we know where we are." Of course we know: right here is always where you are!

Driving to McDonald's Corners on a fall day takes twice as long as it should because the scenery deserves a good look. As you round the corner and the Vodkow chilled. We know there will be many and go over a bridge, there's a restaurant that served us a lovely Thanksgiving lunch many years ago. For a long time we couldn't find this place again, and then one sunny afternoon we came across the bridge, and there was the building exactly as we remembered it as if in a delightful dream.

Friends have cottages where invitations are sincerely handed out, but we are pretty sure we'd start driving, get completely lost in our own reveries, and end up fumbling around with no cell-phone contact, no proper GPS, and having to come back home. We'd have had an adventure and a nice trip, but we'd have missed the cottage for sure. Best to stick

When we first heard of Ompah it became a must for a road trip. Oh, the back roads of Lanark! Hopetown is well-named. We hoped we'd find our way back there! We drove and drove, and then nearly missed Ompah, but we did find the llama farm, bought a cute little hand-painted watering can, and visited a proper general store. We never go anywhere but there isn't something we love to see.

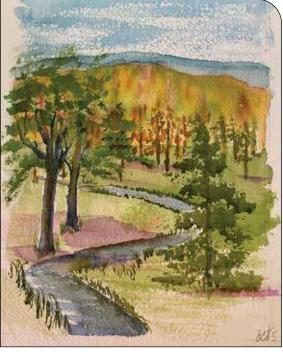

In the before times (before Covid) we took a road trip with Ron and Terri Caron up the Opeongo Line through Wilno, Barry's Bay, Siberia (yes!), Killaloe, and places beyond. The trip was narrated with a cassette tape describing the history as we went along. For two days we enjoyed the scenery, the history, the music, and all the beautiful art and culture, to say nothing of the fabulous food that area affords. Of all the road trips Hasn't it been a glorious fall? Isn't the colour the best you've ever we've ever done, this one stands out, not only because recorder, one built into the car for goodness sakes?

> One summer we followed the footsteps of the scrappy country where those poor settlers thought they could eke out a living, two women with children doing what they could to survive. It made us so thankful for our easy living. The road trip was close to home for us, but for them it was so far away that we realized the hardships they endured. We're very lucky.

> So here we are in November, and the road trips the full extent of our travels. However, we'll have the memories of the past trips to tide us over. In fact, we look forward to November, the woodstove crackling good fall days to set off on one of our mystery tours again, but for now are content to be at home.

outside world is put to bed — the garden, the weeds, the bugs — and we're waiting for winter. I've organized the snow shovels, the sand and salt, the winter boots, the winter tires. It's dark before supper and summer. For now, it's cocoon time. Happy November!
